OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Skip Bob Pickering of Avonlea, Sask., held his breath as the Prince Edward Island skip poised in the back to deliver his final shot this morning.

"How was it—wide?" Pickering said from the stands as the Island stone sailed down the sheet and missed a double take-out attempt in the seventh round of the Canadian curling championship.

The miss gave Duke Smale and his British Columbia rink from Prince George a 6-5 victory over the Islanders and sole possession of first place in the 11-rink, round-robin championship.

British Columbia had seven consecutive victories going into the eighth round, one more than defending champion Alberta which drew the seventh-round bye.

Ron Northcott and his Calgary crew met Newfoundland in the eighth round, while British Columbia took on Quebec before the two leaders clashed in the ninth round tonight.

Following are the standings after seven rounds in the Canadian curling championship at Oshawa, Ont.

	W	L
British Columbia	7	0
Alberta	6	0
Saskatchewan	5	1
Quebec	4	2
P.E.I.	3	3
Northern Ontario	3	4
Nova Scotia	2	4
New Brunswick	2	5
Newfoundland	2	5
Manitoba	1	5
Ontario	0	6

"I was sort of hoping P.E.I. could have pulled that one off," Pickering said. "British Columbia and Alberta have to lose at least one each if we're going to tie them."

Saskatchewan had a 5-1 record after defeating New Brunswick 8-3 in the morning round.

The only loss by the Avonlea rink was to British Columbia in Monday's second round and the Saskatchewan foursome is scheduled to play Alberta in the final round at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

In other seventh-round games this morning, Quebec downed Newfoundland 12-5, Nova Scotia edged Ontario 10-9 and Northern Ontario defeated Manitoba 9-8.

The five games left Earl Carson and his Quebec rink from Bagotville alone in fourth place with a 4-2 won-lost record, while Alan Smith and his Charlottetown crew followed at 3-3.

Terry Johnson of Kenora, representing Northern Ontario, was in sixth place with a 3-4 record, while Nova Scotia's Peter Hope of Dartmouth was 2-4.

Rinks skipped by Hap Mabey of Moncton, N.B., and Bill Piercy of St. John's, Nfld., were 2-5, Manitoba's Bob Robinson was 1-5 and Ontario's Ken Buchanan of London was winless in six tries.

Smith came close to pulling an upset and handing British Columbia its first loss in the takeout duel that had the P.E.I. rink leading 5-4 with last shot coming home.

But Smith missed his first shot of the final end when he attempted to come around a B.C. shot rock on the four foot. Smale then attempted another guard, was heavy and froze to his first stone, leaving it open for a double takeout that would have given Smith the game.

But the Charlottetown skip came out of the hack wide and missed the shot to give up two.

MAN STEPS INTO VOID OF SPACE

Sick Astronaut Recovers And Takes A Little Stroll

HOUSTON (AP) — Astronaut Russell L. Schweickart stepped out of his orbiting spacehatch into the emptiness of space today and became a breathing, talking human satellite of the earth.

David R. Scott also briefly poked his head out of the Apollo 9 command ship hatch to retrieve a thermal patch attached to the outside.

Protected only by his cumbersome space suit and drawing life-giving oxygen from a pack on his back, Schweickart slipped out of the lunar module—called LEM—hatch at 12:03 p.m. EST.

Once over the sill he was in a weightless world where danger is always a companion. It's a world into which only eight other men have ventured—five Americans and three Russians.

Schweickart, red-haired freckle-le-faced father of five, stepped onto a platform outside the LEM hatch which the astronauts called the "front porch."

He floated out carefully and clumsily in his bulky suit and placed his boots in a pair of "golden slippers" attached to the platform.

The slippers, which look like Dutch shoes, held him fast and kept him from drifting away, freeing his hands for work.

"I'm standing in the slippers," Schweickart reported.

He gazed at the breath-taking vista of stars, sun and sky around him.

"Oh, boy, what a view," he said excitedly.

"Say hello to the camera, or something," James A. McDivitt said as he tried to snap a picture of his space-strolling companion.

"Hello, camera," said Schweickart.

"There's a moon over there," McDivitt told him.

"Hello dere," said Schweickart, enjoying his cosmic excursion.

He Was A True Satellite . . .

Schweickart's two Apollo 9 companions also were exposed to the fierce vacuum—McDivitt in the LEM and Scott in the command ship.

Their suits were plugged into the life-support systems of their respective ships, which were still locked together nose-to-nose as they have been since Monday.

Schweickart was on his own, a true satellite relying on his $250,000 suit and the oxygen and communications pack which he wore on his back like a knapsack. It was the first space test of the suit and pack U.S. astronauts will wear on the moon.

Other U.S. space walkers were hooked to the spaceship life support systems by long umbilical lines.

"The decision to make the planned 45-minute walk was made by McDivitt only an hour before Schweickart stepped through the hatch.

A more ambitious space walk that had been planned for today was cancelled Wednesday after Schweickart had two bouts with nausea.

McDivitt reported today that Schweickart was "feeling much better" and recommended that he make the abbreviated walk.

Britain Cuts Defence Cost

LONDON (Reuters) — The government Wednesday night won parliamentary approval for its tight defence budget and Europe-oriented strategy, despite Conservative party charges that Britain and her overseas interests had become inadequately protected.

An opposition censure motion was outvoted 310 to 231, a majority of 79.

But the government majority slumped to 47 when a later motion approving its defence policy was carried 279 to 232. More than 20 Labour members then abstained as a protest against too much reliance by NATO on a nuclear deterrent. Some also wanted still bigger cuts in defence spending.

The vote came at the end of a two-day debate during which leading Conservatives attacked the government's proposed military withdrawal from the Persian Gulf and South East Asia by the end of 1971.

Reginald Maudling, Conservative deputy leader, said his party rejected the idea that Britain's long-term interests were served by total concentration on the European front.

Such a policy might tempt the United States to come to a free agreement with the Soviet Union over the heads of Western European nations because they felt "you are not helping us in the rest of the world, so why should we look after you in Europe?" he warned.

Defence Secretary Denis Healey denied defence resources had been cut in the home and claimed Britain was the strongest military power in Western Europe.

CANADA'S HIGH-LOW

Doubtful Franc Stirs Gold Rush

LONDON (AP) — A new gold rush appeared to be building up in European bullion markets today, sparked by renewed speculation that the French franc will be devalued.

At Zurich, Switzerland, the price of gold hit a record high of $43.40-43.70 U.S. an ounce on the world's largest free bullion market. Dealers reported buying from all over and a heavy volume but said they were too swamped with orders to make a detailed analysis yet.

At the morning fixing in London, the price rose 25 cents over Wednesday's close to $43.25, then went as high as $43.60 during lively dealing.

In Paris, the price broke through to another all-time high—the third such break-through in three days. The free market closing price was $47.92 an ounce. It closed at $47 Wednesday.

The official price of gold for international settlements is $35 an ounce.

Most of the demand in London was coming from France, with one dealer estimating it as high as 75 per cent of the market. The French were reported smuggling money out of their country to convert it into gold.

DEVALUATION EXPECTED

Foreign exchange dealers believe devaluation of the franc is only a matter of time. The new fears for the French currency resulted from the French trade unions' demands for high wages, and speculators have moved into the bullion market to hedge.

In negotiations with the workers, which one participant has characterized as "sour," President de Gaulle's government has offered a four-per-cent increase. It maintains anything over that would be inflationary. The workers are demanding a 12-per-cent increase.

A government spokesman said substantial increases would lead to devaluation of the franc, which still is shaky from last fall's financial crisis.

The increased demand for gold also rises from tension in the Middle East, over Berlin and over the Chinese-Soviet border, with the speculator feeling if war comes it is better to have gold in the bank than any kind of money.

Last November, when French gold reserves dipped below $4,000,000,000 and there was a rush from the franc to the West German mark, the Western financial countries put up a $2,000,000,000 reserve fund to bolster the franc. But President de Gaulle refused to devalue the franc.

Instead he announced a series of belt-tightening measures that included a reduction in the government deficit, a freeze on prices, exchange controls and wage freeze until the franc recovered.

Sacred Education Policy A Failure, Says Opposition

VICTORIA (CP)—The Social Credit government was accused Wednesday of failure to set up long-term goals in education and failure to co-ordinate the system.

Education Minister Donald Brothers, came under fire as debate on his department's estimates totalling $290,841,475 began. No money votes were passed during an afternoon of broad-ranging criticism of government education policies.

In rebuttal to his critics, Mr. Brothers said that he hopes to amalgamate B.C.'s vocational schools and regional colleges.

"It will mean the local taxpayer will be paying less of the total bill," Mr. Brothers told the legislature.

"The time has now come when we should study the welding or joining of vocational schools and regional colleges."

CITES SUPPORT

Regional colleges are now supported 60 per cent by the province and 40 per cent by local ratepayers. Vocational schools are paid for by the province with support from the federal government.

Mr. Brothers said the regional college concept "is one of the most exciting on the horizon."

Municipal Affairs Minister

DONALD BROTHERS

... defends system

Dan Campbell came to Mr. Brothers' aid and said that for all the Opposition argument, there is only one basic question in the minds of the public.

"I think they're asking a fundamental question—is the public getting a fair deal?"

Opposition M.L.A.s asked him if he was satisfied with the current system of education and the most exciting on the horizon.

Mr. Campbell replied he was not, never had been, now "or when I was a teacher."

Open-And-Shut Case Offered In Berlin's War Of Nerves

BERLIN (CP) — The East Germans today closed, reopened and again closed the main 110-mile autobahn leading to Berlin as the war of nerves continued between East and West.

One of the travellers halted at the Berlin end of the highway was the British deputy commander in Berlin, Gordon Etherington Smith.

American officials in Berlin denied a West German news agency report that a U.S. military train was fired on as it passed through East German territory from Berlin during the night.

A U.S. spokesman said the train had a smashed window and a dented window frame but the damage was not caused by a bullet. The German news agency report had quoted customs officials at Brunswick as saying U.S. soldiers told them at least one shot was fired at the train.

At Helmstedt in West Germany, the autobahn was closed off by the East German guards early this morning, the sixth time this has happened since the weekend.

Chinese Surround Russian Embassy

PEKING (AFP) — The Soviet Embassy here appeared to be totally surrounded by demonstrators today as crowds paraded through the city for the fourth day running in protest against Sunday's incident on the Sino-Soviet border.

If anything, the tone of the demonstrations was even more intense than those of the last three days.

Loudspeaker vans continually broadcast anti-Soviet slogans such as "Down with the revisionists who have violated the sacred soil of China" and "Down with the new czars."

The New China news agency said 30,000,000 people so far had staged anti-Soviet demonstrations in China.

Some contractors have signed with a fathers' union while others have agreements with a council of four unions—carpenters, ironworkers, laborers and cement finishers.

Chief Mackey, speaking in a panel discussion at the annual convention of the Evangelical Fellowship of Canada, said if a while negotiating with the union, the union concerned, Jacks, supporting floors were removed, causing them to fall, and heaters were set too close to walls, leading to fire.

He said no charges have been laid because there has been no evidence pointing at any individuals.

James Daw, labor relations manager of Lender Mackay and Forming Ltd., and manager of Direct Forming Ltd., which has been hard hit by a union, said there is more than an inter-union dispute involved.

He said his firm and others have withdrawn from an association of contractors after they discovered some of the employees were signing a backdoor agreement with the fathers' union.

The union and damage followed, he said.

Tony Michaels, business agent for the Ironworkers union, agreed with the contractors who were hit that the destruction goes beyond an inter-union struggle.

"If Chief Mackey has any proof unions are involved he should name names," he said.

Pentiction Bank Embezzler Says She 'Used' Her Friend

PENTICTON (CP) — Convicted bank embezzler Ann Kathleen Spiller told Wednesday how she had used her close friend Fanny (Bambi) Shubin to take suspicion off herself.

The 26-year-old inmate of Kingston Penitentiary was flown back to Pentiction to testify on behalf of Miss Shubin, who is charged with possession of money she knew had been stolen following theft of $494,000 from the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada between 1963 and 1968.

The two friends had not seen each other since Miss Spiller was sentenced to three years for the theft last November.

The former Royal Bank teller testified that she had placed the Cadillac in Miss Shubin's name so that "they would check her bank account, not mine."

She had made Miss Shubin the beneficiary in her will as "just another way of using her."

"I used her in many ways," she told the court.

When Miss Spiller wanted travellers' cheques her companion would buy them.

"I just told her I didn't want people at the bank to know my business."

Miss Spiller said she had told no one of the theft before her confession on Sunday, Sept. 22, 1968.

"I knew what I had been doing was coming to an end and I had to tell somebody before I was arrested."

"I said that the inspectors were at the bank because of me," Miss Spiller told the court.

"It had been on my mind for so many months and years."

"Fanny asked if I had been taking money from the bank. Then she asked if the whole inheritance story had been a lie."

"I don't think anyone believed my story that day, we were all in a state of shock and tears."

"I asked Mrs. Shubin to pray for me," Miss Spiller said.

She said she made large gifts of furs, jewelry, cars and clothing to the accused.

"I decided what the gifts would be. I'd say come along with me we are going to get this or that."

"She had little to say in the matter, I just decided for her," Miss Spiller described her companion as "like an older sister to me in many ways."

P.E.I. Crossing 'Too Costly' So Pearson Pledge Broken

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Lester Pearson scotched prediction that he would fulfill his promise of a crossing to Prince Edward Island Wednesday.

Mr. Trudeau offered instead an upgraded ferry service and a $225,000,000 development plan for the island province.

The road crossing, first promised in 1973 by Sir John A. Macdonald as an inducement to P.E.I. to enter Confederation, has been dangled like a mirage before isolated islanders in election campaigns since then.

This time it evaporated in the face of costs estimated at $300,000,000 by the spring of 1967—when Ottawa began reviewing the project after $12,000,000 worth of work had been done.

But Mr. Trudeau told the Commons "there is a limitation, Churchill to the resources of Canada" and the causeway has lost out to other spending priorities.

The government recognized that the ferry service isn't acceptable now and it will be "extensively upgraded and developed," Mr. Trudeau said. Capacity will be twice what it was last year when the summer tourist season starts, he said.

The development plan would entail federal spending of $125,000,000 in a first stage of seven years, "the second phase will extend through the balance of a 15-year period and is expected to involve federal expenditures of $100,000,000."

Strong-Arm Unions Grip Contractors In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Contractors say they agree with a statement by Police Chief James Mackey of Metropolitan Toronto that "arson" and "sabotage" have been used against them.

Chief Mackey said Wednesday that a local construction union, headed by criminals, is using arson and sabotage to force contractors to sign agreements and compel their employees to join the union. He refused to name the union.

But the contractors, who erect the concrete shell of buildings, say fire-bombing and other forms of arson indicate more than an inter-union battle and suggest the destruction may not even be the work of a union.

Some contractors have signed with a fathers' union while others have agreements with a council of four unions—carpenters, ironworkers, laborers and cement finishers.

B.C. Cattle Growers Seek Stronger Land Controls

Cattle growers Wednesday called for strong land administration in British Columbia including co-operation between government departments. The B.C. Beef Cattle Growers Association made its proposal in Victoria in a brief to the legislature's standing committee on forestry and fisheries, which is studying the use of grazing land. The association said it takes 100 years to grow trees where grass can be cropped every year, but that on one-tenth of B.C.'s existing forest land much more could be produced through multiple sustained yield and proper management of both trees and grass instead of by single-use policies. The association also singled out B.C. Hydro as being "unco-operative" about re-seeding power line rights of way.

A British Columbia Liberal MP suggested Wednesday the government should consider Banff or Jasper national parks for the site of a "western regional headquarters of government." Bruce Howard (Okanagan Boundary), said in the Commons there is a "feeling of separateness in Western Canada." The distance from the national capital added to a feeling of "administrative unconcern." Establishment of a western site of government, a sort of summer capital, would help dispel some of the feeling of separateness.

Six Juveniles Found Guilty In Destruction At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A social welfare court judge Wednesday found six juveniles guilty of mischief in the destruction Feb. 11 of the Sir George Williams University computer centre.

Meanwhile in municipal court seven more of 87 adults charged in the same damage spree were granted bail ranging from $3,000 to $14,000. Two of the accused remain in custody, denied bail.

The juveniles, three girls and three boys, aged between 16 and 17 years, will be sentenced March 12.

The adults released Wednesday were ordered to appear for preliminary hearings March 11. Judge John Long told the juveniles their parents must appear in court next Wednesday to show cause why they would not pay for damage to university property.

In the meantime, they have been paroled in the care of their parents. The trial was held privately in Judge Long's study.

A seventh juvenile, a 16-year-old Negro boy, is being held for psychiatric examination. LODGE SINGLE CHARGE

Prosecutors had originally charged the juveniles with conspiracy to commit arson and damage property, but they later withdrew the charges and substituted a single charge of mischief.

The adults face the conspiracy charges.

Still in jail are Kennedy J. Frederick, 29, of Grenada, whose preliminary hearing, now in its third week, was postponed Wednesday to hear the bail applications, and Robert Williams, 27, of Trinidad.

Williams had been released on $5,000 bail the day of his arrest, but was returned to jail Feb. 26 on a charge of illegally entering Canada.

Bail for the other adults ranged from $1,000 to $8,000.

In addition to furnishing bail, each accused signed a statement that he would not go near university property and would refrain from public demonstrations.

GIVE UP PASSPORTS

Students holding passports had to surrender them to police pending their hearing.

All 87 persons were charged with conspiracy to commit arson and to damage property after their 14-day occupation of the computer centre burst into early-morning violence Feb. 11. For 10 hours the occupiers threw furniture down stairs and escalators to prevent police from entering, and smashed and set fire to the university's computer equipment.

Preliminary hearings for some of the accused has been set for April 14 and May 12 so as not to interfere with university exams.

Meanwhile, Computer Systems Ltd. of Ottawa announced it will provide computer service for Sir George Williams until the university has replaced its equipment.

In Ottawa, Immigration Minister Alan MacEachen told a delegation from Sir George Williams University that the 46 foreign students, if convicted, face deportation.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Gold prices soared today as the Toronto stock market posted a moderate advance in light mid-morning trading. The gold index jumped 10.8 to an all-time high of 276.96, reacting to news that European bullion hit record levels. London gold was up 25 cents to $43.25. Rumors that the French franc may be devalued were blamed for the increase despite President de Gaulle's persistent statements to the contrary. In Toronto, Dome Mines advanced 4 to 95, a record high, Campbell Red Lake 1 1/2 to 36 1/2, Camflo 15 cents to $6.75 and Giant Yellowknife 1/2 to 15 1/2. Interprovincial Petroleum gained 1/2 to 19 1/2. The National Energy Board approved the company's $25,400,000 expansion program that will enable the company to provide expanded pipeline service to its markets in Eastern Canada. Canadian Export Gas slipped 15 cents to $8.05. The company said it has reached an agreement to sell its 61 per cent interest in Bluewater Oil and Gas Ltd., an Ontario company, to a San Francisco group. The deal involves $1,761,000.

Rutland Group Seeking Grant

A request by the Rutland Public Health Society for a $500 grant will be studied further, at the Central Okanagan Regional District meeting Wednesday.

George Whittaker noted that $20,000 for construction of the health unit has been raised by service clubs and organizations, with a remaining $4,000 from public sources.

Chairman, W. C. Bennett, informed the meeting that attempts to amend the regional district bylaw to look after such exigencies were now being made.

A more negative attitude was expressed by the district concerning involvement in a projected traffic survey brought up at the last regular meeting. A motion by Harold Thwaite "not to get involved in the study" found support. The $10,000 projected traffic study would involve a five-mile radius of the city.

Other business on the agenda included approval for forwarding of a letter to the Kamloops civil defence co-ordinator for grant assistance to help defray cost of a $16,000 fire truck for the Benvenuto Fire Department. A request to the lieutenant-governor for changes in electoral boundaries of Lakeview and Westbank had been approved.

Kelowna Junior Chamber Gets Support For Project

The Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce has your number. At least it will have, if you live in an "addressless" house situated at the south end of the city limits.

Money for the project was approved by the Central Okanagan Regional District at its regular meeting Wednesday, after a request for financial assistance was presented by Jaycee delegates, Wayne Schaad and Pat Moss.

Introduced at the meeting by Mr. Moss, Mr. Schaad explained the proposed project of supplying numberless houses with a "systematic" system of numerical identification required regional district approval, as well as some financial assistance for mailing and stamps.

He also requested use of a voters list to help facilitate notification of residents in the houses involved.

Support was voiced by Bert Jansen, who told the meeting the Jaycees had the project "laid out and planned". Cost of the project was estimated at $150.

Some advantages cited by Mr. Moss included door-to-door delivery.

Members approved a motion by D. A. Brichard supporting the Jaycee project. The organization was responsible for the house numbering system in the city, and has an ultimate aim to tackle a system for street numbering.

Kelowna Alderman Elected Chairman Of Health Board

Chairmanship of the South Okanagan Union Board of Health will stay in Kelowna for the next year, with the election at the Union's 40th annual meeting Wednesday in Penticton, of Kelowna Ald. E. R. Winter to head the board.

Elected vice-chairman was Ald. Frank Laird, of Penticton, with medical health officer Dr. D. A. Clarke, of Kelowna, as secretary.

Honored for her nine year's service on the board was former Kelowna school trustee Mrs. Dorothy Pelly, who was awarded a silver tray by retiring 1968 board chairman, Ald. Hilbert Roth, of Kelowna. Mrs. Pelly was made an honorary life member of the board.

The board also recognized 20 year's service to the union by senior health inspector Fred Alcock, presented with a pen desk set.

Present at Wednesday's meeting was a delegation from the Kamikameen Health Society, Keremeos, announcing plans for a June 21 banquet ceremony to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Similkameen Public Health Service.

The first public health service in the Okanagan and the third in Canada, was formed at Keremeos in 1919, with Miss Edna Gray of the V.O.N. as the first public health nurse. Since then 30 nurses have served the unit.

Miscellaneous type-lice were busy Wednesday, their main menu seemingly the Okanagan Regional Library district story that came out affirming approval of negotiative committee's report for settlement of books with Penticton. The motion was defeated by 46 to 44.

Kelowna residents will be watching with interest to see how many people attend this year's Canadian Curling Championship in Oshawa. This city is attracting 25,813 curling fans to last year's Brier. This placed Kelowna 10th out of 25 in the list of attendance for Briers since 1949. Kelowna ranks ahead of such cities as Moncton, Vancouver (in 1950), Saskatoon, Sudbury, Kingston, Halifax, Hamilton, Charlottetown and Quebec. Kelowna is the smallest city ever to stage the Brier, with by far the smallest arena.

A Kelowna resident, while out for a drive recently, stopped near Penticton to watch a bald headed eagle feeding for meal. His prey was a water bird which was floating in the calm water. The eagle made several dives but the wily bird always ducked in time. Finally after about five minutes of action the eagle came in with a long low glide and his talons hit and stunned the bird. The eagle made a sharp bank, picked up his meal and flew away.

Occasionally, from a garbage can, everything will come out roses. At least that's what the "flowered children" operating the city's number 64 sanitary division truck discovered recently as they found the new-found artificial flowers to the unit's windshield wipers and rear-view mirrors. Henceforth every alley will be a "primrose lane".

SUNNY weather is forecast for Friday, with light winds. Mainly cloudy today, clearing this evening, with the chance of a few snow flurries. Low to night and high Friday for the Kelowna area are forecast at 23 and 42. The high and low temperatures recorded Wednesday were 35 and 30 degrees, with 2.6 inches of snow, compared with 43 and 21 and no precipitation recorded on the same date a year ago.

EAGER YOUNG faces beam with fascination at the names of odd-sounding places at the career day Canadian University Services Overseas (CUSO) exhibit. The display Wednesday at Kelowna Secondary School was one of many occupations represented at career day, part of Education Week in school district 23. About 1,700 students and 100 specialists in various fields of education, industry and commerce met at the school to discuss future careers for the senior students. (Courier photo)

EDUCATION WEEK

Students Enjoy Big Career Day

Somebody left the academic door wide open Wednesday, and 1,700 students from school district 23 (Kelowna) scrambled all over career day.

With subdued pandemonium and a kind of cultural frenzy, 3,400 eyes, ears and feet converged on a dozen exhibits and pondered 50 presentations from 100 specialists in education, industry and commerce.

There were a lot of things to see, many to marvel at and much to digest, but the kids didn't miss a thing. From acrobatics to X-rays, the career day program left little to chance but a lot to young imaginations undecided about a future career. And that was the whole point of the event.

One of the most over-worked exhibits for male student attention (there were a few girls too) was the Okanagan Telephone booth headed by Ralph Wass, who presided over the myriad mysteries of teletypes, a complete telephone exchange and various other complicated communications paraphernalia. "We've been swamped," he said in smiling approval. His responsibilities were shared by Mrs. Clayton Lavell, plant and clerk counsellor, who dispensed information on such varied branches as key-punch operator, utility clerking, equipment installer, mechanical engineering and drafting and line-man.

Florence Nightingale might have been frightened at all the orderly confusion at Kelowna Secondary School Wednesday, but she would have been proud of the public health display and the six angels of enlightenment who worked shifts to dispense information and advice.

"There have been a lot of browsers interested in our pamphlets," said Mrs. R. J. Clark, RN, who added the interesting footnote that most schools of nursing are encouraging male applications. The booth was under supervision of Fred Alcock, senior public health inspector for the South Okanagan Health Unit. Others attending were Miss Annette Stark, superintendent of nurses for the South Okanagan Health Unit, and Mrs. Wayne Hill, public health nurse with the Kelowna mental health centre, as well as Miss Jill Thompson, family practical nurse.

Implementing the medical presentation was the hospital booth, with senior X-ray technician, A. E. Cliffe, of The Kelowna General Hospital in attendance. His advisory chores were aided by Tom Burke, hospital plant manager, and Miss M. Gratton, Vernon X-ray student. Information subjects available were nursing, psychology, physiotherapy, medical recording, dentistry and librarianship. One of the surprising aspects of the booth was the varied trades skills necessary in the maintenance of a hospital, including knowledge of air-conditioning, electricity, plumbing, carpentry, steam engines and instrument and appliance mechanics.

Offsetting the staid professions were the more "glamorous" fields of radio, television and journalism, which got a big play from students. Respected representation from audio and visual media was provided from local stations. A new entry this year from Coast newspapers included a large pictorial display depicting publication of a daily newspaper.

The ideals of career day were summed up by Mrs. J. J. Munday, 2210 Richter St., who told the Courier that it gave students "an idea of what they want to do for a career." She added that students might heed the advice of careers counsellors, where they "wouldn't listen to parents."

One of the busiest booths was the Western Airlines exhibit, a representative of which expressed pleasure with the organization and success of career day, and lauded committee members for their excellent project.

The airline officially takes over from CP Air April 27 with a new jet service that is expected to cut almost 20 minutes from the current 40-minute run from Kelowna to Vancouver.

Production This Monday

A missing part in the heating system of the area's new pleasure craft plant has delayed the company's production start until Monday.

D. W. Ballantyne, plant manager and secretary of Canadian Fibrefarm Ltd., Westside Industrial Park, said the part was omitted in original shipment and was necessary for the safety measures of the laminating department, which must be kept at a temperature above 50 degrees. He said he expects shipment of the part today, and hopes to go into full production by Monday.

Employing 25 men, the plant is expected to produce four 14 to 32-foot boats a day, which will be increased to five by April.

Mr. Ballantyne said his company had a "very successful" boat show in Vancouver, with more than 100 orders already backlogged, including 10 from local buyers.

AMALGAMATION?

Amalgamation of Glenmore's two water systems—domestic and irrigation—will be the main topic at a special meeting of the Glenmore District Ratepayers tonight. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the North Glenmore School.

'DRY' VOICES HEARD

Liquor Probe Coming Here

Various Central Okanagan groups will soon have a chance to tell the B.C. government in person their opinions of the province's liquor laws.

A royal commission investigating liquor laws will visit the Central Okanagan in the next few months, the first action taken on the issue of liquor licences since a petition went to Victoria last November seeking for a plebiscite in liquor area 46—Westbank to Winfield.

The three-man commission board's circuit of the province begins March 17 in Vancouver and will cover Victoria, the Okanagan, the Kootenays, the Cariboo, Nanaimo and any other centre where response warrants a visit.

Although not officially supporting pleas to allow liquor outlets in the big "dry" area surrounding Kelowna, various chambers of commerce are expected to strongly demand a liquor plebiscite.

The Kelowna, Westbank, Winfield, Oyama-Okanagan Centre and Rutland chambers sent letters to the liquor control board supporting the plebiscite which might lead to a liquor store in Rutland.

A petition with enough signatures to warrant a plebiscite was sent to the attorney-general in November, but no word has been received.

Bud Truswell, president of the Westbank chamber, said today he feels the government will wait until after the royal commission makes its report before deciding on the plebiscite.

In Victoria, Judge C. W. Morrow, commission chairman, said Wednesday he plans to have the recommendations ready for the next session of the legislature in April.

Judge Morrow and the other two commission members, the Most Reverend Martin Johnson, retired Roman Catholic archbishop, and Ed Lawson, Teamster Joint Council president, took their oaths of office before County Court Judge A. H. J. Swenicki Wednesday.

Headquarters of the commission will be in Victoria. The post of commission secretary was filled Wednesday with appointment of Commanded A. A. A. Kalkchak of Victoria, 45-year-old ex-Navy officer.

Mr. Truswell, speaking personally, said he feels strongly that there should be a plebiscite and will make a verbal presentation to the commission to that effect when it visits here.

He said the other members are likely to do the same. At least two hotel owners in the area are expected to ask the commission for licences.

"I strongly suggest the government will have to put up or shut up," Mr. Truswell said, commenting on the disparities of liquor outlets between Kelowna and the surrounding districts.

He mentioned two hotels outside of Kelowna that were granted special liquor licences in spite of their location in a dry area.

He also said he feels strongly about the need for more liquor stores—at the Capri, in Rutland or elsewhere.

Kelowna's one liquor store serves a population of 40,000 people from Oyama to Peachland.

Jobless Total Up

As of March 1, there were 1,643 male and 975 female clients seeking employment through the Canada Manpower Centre, Kelowna. These figures show an increase of 165 male and 77 female workers since Feb. 1.

During the period 13 male and 39 female adults were in training under the manpower training for adults program.

The majority of vacancies in the male section were readily filled by applicants registered locally.

In the female section there are vacancies for waitresses, care hostesses and "live in" housekeepers.

Gasoline Missing

Theft of gasoline and several minor traffic accidents were the only police business reported overnight.

The tank of a car parked behind the Masonic Lodge was emptied of gasoline sometime prior to 8 p.m. Wednesday. Owner of the car, Mrs. Stewart Duff, Highway 97 North, reported the theft late Wednesday.

Colleen Thomas, Salmon Arm, was driver of a car that went out of control on the K.L.O. Road Wednesday at 9:45 a.m. and struck a tree. Damage was about $250, but there were no injuries.

A two-car collision occurred in the intersection of Glenmore Street and Lawrence Avenue at 5:10 p.m. Wednesday. Drivers were Ronald Mitchell, Stremed Road, and Isaac Unrau, Guisan Road. There were no injuries, and damage was estimated at $225.

Rock Hounds Make Plans

Plans for a Valley-wide get together of rock-hounds were made recently at a meeting of the 1120 Rock Club in Kelowna. Other activities of the meeting included a bragging table and demonstration of the pouring of plastic by Henry Metke. A down note and raffle were won by Wilf Akerlund and Don Wood.

The Okanagan meeting will be held March 22 in the IOOF Hall, 104 McLeod, president of the 1120 Rock Club and Mineral Society of B.C., and Walter Langton, rendezvous co-ordinator, will be guests at the event. Sheds of B.C. rock hounds, a film called the Jade Story will be the feature attractions. There will also be games and refreshments.

Valley's Road Conditions Still Demanding Caution

Road conditions up and down the Valley have changed little in the past few weeks as the weather continues bad in the Interior.

North of Vernon, in the Falkland area, Highway 97 was reported slushy as a result of four inches of new snow in the past day and a half, according to the department of highways today. Plowing and sanding is in progress. Other stretches along 97 were said to be mostly bare but wet.

The Fraser Canyon stretch of number one was reported in good winter condition—mostly bare but with some slippery sections. Although sanding is being continued, winter tires or chains are required.

The Kamloops-Salmon Arm-Revelstoke section of the Trans-Canada Highway is in similar condition. There is a warning to watch for falling rock around Three Valley Gap.

Rogers Pass—80 to 90 per cent bare from Revelstoke to Golden, in spite of an inch of new snow overnight at the Quartz Creek summit and a falling rock warning at summit. Winter tires or chains required.

The Hope-Princeton (Allison Pass) highway had slippery, hard-packed snow sections, although sanding was in progress. Winter tires or chains necessary.

Kelowna to Beaverdell was reported slippery in some areas, with hard-packed snow. Plowing and sanding in progress. The Big White road was reported in a similar condition, but chains or good winter tires were required.

Vernon - Lumby-Cherryville road had three to four inches of new snow in the past 48 hours and plowing and sanding was well under way. Cherryville to Monashee Pass recorded two inches of wet snow, with plowing and sanding, although there was no report of any new snow. The road has been well-plowed and sanded, however, winter tires or chains were still required.

Two trucks from the Kelowna Fire Brigade answered a call at 8 p.m. Wednesday to Valley Drafting and Design Ltd., 525 Lawrence Ave. The minor blaze produced more smoke than fire, some damage to the premises, and possibly some smoke infiltration to an adjacent firm. Firemen spent two hours on the call, turned in by telephone from a nearby resident. No estimate of damage is available at press time. There is no indication about the cause of the fire.

Charges of driving without 1969 licence plates were laid against two people, bringing the total missing last Friday's deadline and getting caught, to four so far. Only one, however, showed up in court today. He was Francis Hayden, Kelowna, fined $25 for the offence.

Two speeding charges were remanded. Mohammed Kaleem, Chemanais, pleaded not guilty and will appear March 14 for trial. Robert Wiens, Kelowna, will appear March 20 on the speeding charge.

Three Kelowna drivers were fined today in magistrate's court for following other vehicles too closely.

Wayne Wolfe was fined $50; Hilke Schueler was fined $75; and John Davy was fined $100. Each was involved in a motor vehicle accident in recent weeks, Davy while driving a cement truck.

Actually, filling in those income tax returns is not really that difficult, if you follow the step-by-step guide provided. The problem this fellow is having seems to be holding all the forms at one time, Westbank resident Doug MacDon-ald decides to send his T1 forms in long before the April 30 deadline and spends an hour figuring out the difference between deductions and exemptions. If the return proves too much for you, consult the income tax branch in Penticton. Every employee should by this time have his T4 forms—record of tax deducted—but if not, should ask his employer for them. (Courier photo)

Short Takes

The surprising and very unwelcome snowfall on Wednesday did for a brief moment give the town a cleaner appearance. Not that this offset the snow itself, however. The snow has been going very slowly these past couple of weeks and the town is anything but attractive. Mud covers the snowbanks along the streets. Papers and empty cartons swirl at every windswept corner. Throwaways—how well named!—lie in the sand left as the streets have dried. Ah! Well! Wednesday's snow delayed still further the clean-up period which certainly the city can't undertake until those snowbanks are gone.

The B.C. government appears to have changed its position regarding permanent automobile licence plates. At least it is now willing to take a look at the idea. Plans call for a trial period of two or three years. There would be several advantages for the private car owner in instituting the permanent-licencing system, including elimination of the bother of the annual switch-over and the difficulty in remembering the new number. With a permanent plate in vogue, these problems could be avoided. It works in Britain where a car carries the same number from the dealer's floor to the junkyard. If there, why not here? Also, it seems obvious that the government would save money on the deal, but it is doubtful that the car owner would see any reduction in his licence fee.

Two items regarding Indians have been in the news these past few days, both from the B.C. Legislature. One is the charge made by the Opposition that RCMP officers at Sechelt have beaten and threatened Indians. Both for the sake of the Indians and of the RCMP this should be cleared up. The fact that a person is an Indian does not justify brutality on the part of the police. On the other hand, if the charges cannot be substantiated, the police have a right to be cleared publicly. The other item concerned a charge by the Indian MLA Frank Calder that labor unions are discriminating against Indians because they are Indians. Mr. Calder must feel pretty strongly about this question as he is an NDP member and the NDP is the official party of the labor unions. In this, as in the other instance, the government should take action to clear the matter up. Mr. Calder should not allow the matter to drop.

It is difficult, possibly even dangerous, to generalize about the kind of responses that should be made when student protest passes beyond the stage of being either argument or purely passive demonstration. The mood of the affair must be gauged intelligently, along with the timing, consequences and nature of the response. The question of whether to ask for police help must be determined by the conduct of the students. The distinction to be made is whether the activity can be classified as a sit-in—the non-violent gesture of going limp in premises against the wishes of the owner—or whether it has become an illegal seizure of property when the owner or his representatives are denied access. There is always a place for restraint and tolerance when the exercise of these qualities can avert violence and encourage a meeting of minds. Restraint should never be confused, however, with the flabby thinking which accommodates a kind of piracy on land or smiles nervously on boys-will-be-boys lawlessness. Failure to act firmly can be just as disastrous as too hasty intervention.

So Man and His World is to struggle through another summer. And at the expense of the Canadian taxpayer. At least Ottawa has postponed the payment of several million dollars it had put up for the Expo operation. Probably Ottawa does not expect to see that money—ever—and so perhaps the cost is small. Still there is a principle involved and it is rather difficult to see how Ottawa can finance an exhibition in Montreal and not make similar contributions to the CNE in Toronto. Expo itself was a different matter; it was a one-shot national binge and Canadians did not regret what it cost them. But Man and His World is quite a different thing; it is solely a Montreal show and a not too successful one at that. It should never have been held last year but it did stagger long on the Expo momentum. The chances are that this year, with the glamor of Expo two years removed, it will be something approaching a colossal flop.

Maybe some of us will have to change our opinions of Richard Nixon. On his European jaunt he appeared to conduct himself well. At least, he listened and did not tell the Europeans what was what—and that is a different approach than used by recent U.S. presidents. Maybe he laid it on a little thick with Gen. de Gaulle, playing up to the Old Man's vanity, but, then, there are more than one ways of skinning a cat. And at home, in his press conference, he handled himself well. Well enough, at least, to make one wonder if this approach is a permanent one or whether it is the first bloom which may rub off as the months pass.

Alcoholism Education?

Pointing out that alcoholism is a major problem for North American society, Dr. Marvin A. Block, M.D., internist, Buffalo, New York, and assistant professor of Clinical Medicine for the State University of New York at Buffalo, says that education is of prime importance in its prevention. He places strong emphasis upon the role of the parents in training their children to develop into mature persons.

Children raised in an environment where the parents drink for pleasure generally follow that pattern, Dr. Block says, and attests to the fact that children learn by imitating their parents' mannerisms, articulation, behavior, etc. As alcoholism is not hereditary, the doctor says, therefore customs must be a large factor.

Dr. Block adds that children of parents who drink in a cultured atmosphere, as part of a ritual and not just for fun, these children do not as often become alcoholics.

A great many teen-agers drink to appear grown-up, the doctor states. He strongly urged that school teachers learn as much as they can about alcoholism and teach the preventive approach to the use of alcohol.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

EARLY SETTLERS TO THE EASTERN PARTS OF CANADA WERE AMAZED AND SOMETIMES FRIGHTENED WHEN THEY FIRST SAW FIREFLIES.

STILL A MYSTERY IS HOW THE FIREFLY CAN OPERATE HIS SCIENTIFICALLY PERFECT LIGHT AT WILL. ONE THING IS CERTAIN; HE DOESN'T USE HIS LIGHT TO SEE WHERE HE'S GOING. HE FLASHES IT TO FIND GIRLS.

HARD TO BELIEVE, NOW WE'RE IN THE SPACE AGE, BUT IN THE 1930'S MANY PEOPLE THOUGHT THE HUGE DIRIGIBLES THAT FILLED THE SKIES WERE SUPERIOR TO AIRPLANES. THE MOST FAMOUS OF THESE PASSENGER CARRYING BALLOONS MADE PORTS OF CALL AT VARIOUS CANADIAN CITIES.

IN 1954 POLICE SPOTTED LYQUINT KEKOLER, FLAPPING HIS ARMS AND SPRINTING DOWN A RUNWAY AT MALTON, TORONTO'S INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT. THEY QUICKLY NARROWED HIM DESPITE HIS PROTEST: "I'M TAKING OFF FOR OTTAWA TO DISCUSS THE WORLD SITUATION WITH THE PRIME MINISTER."

Aussie's Governor-General Butts In To Political Row

CANBERRA (CP) — Fresh from his visit to the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London, where he dined with the Queen, Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia rejected out of hand any suggestion that the country should ditch the monarchy.

"Not in my time" was his terse reply to a questioner who asked if Australia should become a republic.

On Gorton's mind at the time was the appointment of a new governor-general, the Queen's representative in Australia. It was a delicate matter because the role of the governor-general has suddenly assumed new importance with disclosures of the behavior of the present holder of the post, Lord Casey.

Casey, a former governor of Bengal in India and former minister for external affairs in a Liberal-Country party coalition government, had been flouting the unwritten rules of the governor-generalship by playing politics, and playing it hard.

He had been joining in the battle constantly being fought between the Liberal deputy leader and treasurer, William McMahon, and the Country party leader and deputy prime minister, Jack McEwen.

Casey took McEwen's side by calling in McMahon to tell him to stop attacking his opponent for the sake of the stability of this coalition government.

The disclosures of Casey's politicking were first made known in a book written by veteran political journalist Alan Reid.

But Casey freely admitted, when questioned, that he had been interfering in the political affairs of the nation in a way that the governor-general, according to all constitutional precedents, isn't supposed to do at all.

"I write letters constantly to the prime minister, heads of departments and men in industry putting ideas into their minds," said the 78-year-old peer. "I may be boasting, but you would be surprised how often they take notice."

This was the background to the appointment by Gorton of Paul Hasluck, his external affairs minister, as the new governor-general to succeed Casey in April.

If there were murmurings of discontent at the political playing of Casey, what could be expected of Hasluck, a man going almost directly from active political life to the governor-generalship?

There was even more to it than that. Hasluck was Gorton's main rival in the struggle for the prime minister's job in January, 1968. In a poll of 60 Liberal members of Parliament, Hasluck came within four votes of beating Gorton.

Cynics now are saying Gorton has "kicked Hasluck upstairs," thus removing a potential rival for the prime minister's job and potential critic in cabinet.

The Alamo at San Antonio, Texas, finally was captured 133 years ago today—in 1836—by Mexican Gen. Santa Anna's forces after 13 days of bitter fighting. No survivors were permitted among the Texans and the victims included the legendary scout Davy Crockett and James Bowie.

Alamo was taken only after all but five of the 180 defenders had been killed; these five were shot as rebels. A month later Santa Anna was defeated at the battle of San Jacinto and Texas won independence.

Though billed by backers as a compromise solution, the growth plan was condemned by The Times and a new stage this was reached in the debate.

A Living Wage For Everyone?

By PHILIP DEANE,
Foreign Affairs Analyst

It is intriguing and instructive to have a minister of the conservative Ontario government make a proposal which goes further left than anything the Russians have attempted—a proposal, in fact, that amounts to the communist utopia: "from everyone according to his ability, to everyone according to his needs." This was written by Marx more than 100 years ago. Today it is called a "negative income tax."

Everyone below a certain income level would be actually given enough money to bring him up to that level.

On the very morrow of the revolution, Russia abandoned the communist utopia. Pay for piece work was introduced in Russia by Lenin, the famous Stakhanovite program.

The communists have always recognized that some people cannot work because of physical or mental disabilities and these are taken care of, as welfare recipients; their standard of living, initially, was miserable. In Russia, then rose as the general standard rose.

But the communists are very puritanical about work. They think of the man who refuses to work, though there is no apparent reason for his refusal, as a bum and they do not know how to handle him. Some of these people end up as beggars. Begging is illegal and every now and then, the beggars are rounded up. In small towns, the local cops sometimes look the other way.

Many of these "bums" have ended up in forced labor camps where they are forced to work in the fond hope that they will develop a taste for it. Russian socialists have admitted in writing that some people never do develop the taste for labor. And since labor is the only real value, according to communist theory, what to do with bums is a serious problem for the Russians.

The trouble is that bums, even in Russia, marry, produce children and their children—even in a country of officially decreed equal opportunities—suffer. The home environment is the most educational experience of the young child. The child of a bum may turn out all right, and yet again may not. Russian communists have had an admirable concern for the welfare of children. They pamper them. But the children of bums suffer in the home. Taking them away from their family seems to be no solution.

In North American terms, taking slum children from their home does not seem to work. Orphanages, however well run, are a bad environment for children. But if a bum has children, they are more likely to become bums also. At worst, a new generation of disenfranchised criminals is bred through poverty and feeling of being despised and neglected by society. The current favorite solution among social workers is to say: "forget the inequity of rewarding a lazy bum. Pay him all the same, for the sake of his children. If you pay him enough so that he does not feel like a bum, he may stop being a bum." The Russians don't buy this yet.

CANADA'S STORY

Toronto 'Meeting Place' Named By Indians

By BOB BOWMAN

When Canada was divided into Upper and Lower provinces in 1791, John Graves Simcoe was appointed as the first lieutenant governor of Upper Canada. He had commanded the Queen's Rangers in the American Revolutionary War.

The first capital of Upper Canada was Niagara-on-the-Lake but Simcoe changed its name to Newark, after the city in New Jersey where he had been stationed during the war. However, Simcoe was convinced that there would be another war with the U.S. and Newark was too close to the border. So he toured as much of the province as he could and chose the site of present-day London, Ont., as the capital. This was overruled by Lord Dorchester, Governor of Canada, who preferred Toronto, which in those days was little more than a favorite camping grounds of the Indians. In fact the name means "meeting place."

Simcoe had a penchant for changing names, and so he changed Toronto to York, in honor of Frederick, Duke of York, who was winning some battles in Europe. Although there had been a French fort there, it was necessary to begin building the new capital from practically virgin forest. While the early work was going on Simcoe and his family lived in a huge tent that had belonged to Captain Cook, the famous Pacific explorer, who had also navigated Wolfe's armada to Quebec in 1759.

Simcoe returned to Britain in 1796, because he and Dorchester didn't get along, and the citizens of York began trying to get the name changed back to Toronto. It took them a long time, but finally the change was made on March 6, 1834, when Toronto was incorporated as a city. W. L. Mackenzie became its first mayor a few weeks later. By that time Toronto "the good" had a population of 2,000 and 60 taverns. Its reputation for sobriety and "blue Sundays" was gained many years later.

As its Indian name implies, Toronto still is a favorite meeting place for many conventions.

Difficult Decision In Modern London On How To Preserve Art Heritage

LONDON (CP) — Britain's capital city, constantly trying to reconcile its status as a treasure trove of history with the demands of modern life, finds heated debate on the latest such issue entering a new phase.

The current clash concerns plans for changes in the internationally known Tate Gallery and comes as some for continues to fly over another projected London change—construction of a big highway which would involve demolition of highly prized areas of housing.

At the Tate, a modern art museum named for sugar tycoon Sir Henry Tate, much of the controversy centres on proposed demolition of the building's front, revered by some Londoners but castigated by others as, in the words of one critic, a "magnificent sham."

Demolition would make room for what harassed officials at the gallery call a desperately needed expansion.

Though billed by backers as a compromise solution, the growth plan was condemned by The Times and a new stage this was reached in the debate.

In taking its stand, The Times gave influential backing to a line of criticism already voiced by The Guardian and possibly widespread among the rapidly increasing ranks of art devotees in Britain.

The Tate dispute has prompted a Conservative MP to table a Commons question asking the public works minister whether there will be a public inquiry into the expansion plans.

Both The Times and The Guardian support the idea of a new museum built on a site near the Tate. They want the present centre transformed into a gallery of strictly British art.

At the Tate itself, visitors are reported to be predominantly against the £2,000,000 "about $2,200,000" expansion proposed by the gallery's administrators.

The state-supported gallery, Britain's central collection of modern art, played host to more than 1,000,000 visitors last year.

Its art holdings steadily grow in volume and gallery men say many works cannot be shown for lack of space.

They now want to add new halls which would almost double the Tate's exhibition area from the present 60,000 square feet.

The portfolio that would be doled out under this plan dates, together with the gallery itself, from 1897.

It is a landmark on the north bank of the Thames though hardly old by British standards of antiquity.

Some of the loudest critics of the Tate plan seem little concerned with the portfolio's future, concentrating instead on what they call London's need for a new modern-art gallery.

"TEMPORARY EXPEDIENT"
Tate officials argue that this idea is not immediately feasible.

But The Times, in its editorial, termed the Tate's compromise plan, unveiled in January in a test of public reaction, merely a temporary expedient.

At the Tate itself, visitors are reported to be predominantly against the £2,000,000 "about $2,200,000" expansion proposed by the gallery's administrators.

Kennedy - Roper Nuptials In Candlelight Ceremony

Baskets of red and white gladiolus, carnations and mums and white candelabras decorated the Salvation Army Citadel, St. Paul Street, Kelowna for the afternoon nuptials on March 1, uniting Beverly Gertrude Roper, Kelowna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George William Roper, Penticton and John Daniel Gene Kennedy, Kitchener, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Alexander Kennedy, Priceville, Ont.

Candle lighters were Carol Norway and Robby Saunders. White and blue bows marked the pews for the service conducted by Capt. B. Dumerton. The soloist, Mrs. Dumerton, of Vancouver, who sang A Prayer during the service and O Perfect Love during the signing of the register, was accompanied by Mrs. V. Wright, Kelowna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of beau d' elegance in an A line, with a full rose motif chantilly lace cage. The cage was full with a train, bordered with lace edging and was styled with long bell sleeves. Her headdress of small tulle roses held a chapel length four tiered veil. She carried a new testament, adorned with red and white roses, and buds and streamers.

Something old was a great aunt's watch and something borrowed were earrings. Something blue was a blue garter. The maid-of-honor, Brenda Michaud, Kelowna and bridesmaid, Ruth Manning, Kelowna, wore matching gowns of royal blue cut-velvet in street length, with short sleeves. The dress featured empire waist-line, full sleeves, round necklines, and a bow at the waist line, with long flowing ties ending at the hem. Their headdresses were royal blue matching bows with a veil.

The flower girl, Mary Roper, sister of the bride, wore a candy apple red cut-velvet dress to match, with a similar headdress. All three carried small cascade bouquets of white carnations.

The groom was attended by Donald Roper, Penticton, best man; and Bill Isaac, Kelowna.

For the reception at the Royal Ann, the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece dress and three-quarter length coat to match of Queen's blue, lace over taffeta and accessories of white. A corsage of white carnations and red garnets completed her ensemble.

A hand white crocheted table cloth covered the bride's table which was centered with a three-tiered round wedding cake decorated with pink roses and a miniature bride and groom. White candles flanked the cake with the bouquets adding color.

Capt. Dumerton was master of ceremonies for the reception which took the form of a short program. The toast to the bride was proposed by Bob Saunders and the toast to the bridesmaids was given by the best man.

Telegrams were received from Mr. and Mrs. Alen Fitch Sr., Vancouver, cousin of the bride; Brig. W. Fitch and Major H. Asken, Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. Alen Fitch, Burnaby and Cadet Coleen Close, Toronto.

For the honeymoon to the states, the bride wore a walker suit of heathstone blue wool, trimmed with a collar of black dyed lamb with silver accessories. They will reside at 1321 St. Paul St., Kelowna.

Out-of-town guests were: Capt. and Mrs. B. Dumerton, Vancouver, and two sons Mark and Steven; cadet Margaret Roper, sister of the bride, Salvation Army Training College, Toronto; Mrs. D. Sikstrom, Vancouver; Capt. and Mrs. J. Wagner; Lucky Formo, all of Penticton; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walsh, Kamloops; and grandsons Terry; Betty Hood, 100 Mile House and Randy Watson, Victoria.

ANN LANDERS

Man's Best Friend Is Also Best Customer

Dear Ann Landers: A while back you said it was risky to publish letters about people who act foolish over cats or dogs because every time you do, dozens of readers telephone the publisher, write to the editor, cancel their advertising, and stop taking the paper. Even if this letter never makes the column I want to tell you what happened to my sister.

Dora lives next door to people who have a pet scottie named McTavish. They went on a trip recently and asked Dora if she would take McTavish. Last year they put him in a kennel for 10 days and he went on a hunger strike and nearly starved to death.

These people telephoned Dora every night to talk to their dog. In fact, they put the call through person-to-person for Sandy MacTavish. Dora held the dog up to the phone and when he heard their voices he cried for three minutes and that was supposed to be a conversation.

Are people getting crazier, Ann, or are the crazy people just getting more publicity? Where will it all end?—BARE-FLEED BARNY.

Dear Balf: Do you know that Americans spend more money on dog food than on baby food? And only last week I read where dog cosmetics are getting to be big business.

Gone are the days when flea powder was the only thing you could buy for a mutt. Now you select Poochie Nail Polish in five shades, perfume with names like Le Chien, Third Paw and Art Pette. A birth control pill is available for lady dogs who go in for planned parenthood. And dig this — there's a hound's mouthwash called Happy Breath. Man's best friend is also one of his best customers.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 and have been engaged for a year. Joe is 26 and highly intelligent, or so I thought.

Recently we were at the home of Joe's eldest brother. His nephews, 6 and 10 years, were busy looking through the family album. They came across a picture of Joe with his former girl friend. The 10-year-old piped up, "Gee, Uncle Joe, this girl is a lot prettier than the one you got. What happened?"

Everyone laughed so loud I thought the walls would crack. They kept it up for ten minutes. I nearly died on the spot. On the way home I told Joe I was deeply hurt that he didn't defend me. He said the kid meant no harm and that such remarks should be laughed off. What do you say?—STAR.

Dear Star: Kids can be brutal without realizing it. While they mean no harm, they must be taught tact and consideration for others. The "correction" should have come from a parent, however, not from Joe.

A Lot Of Helpful Suggestions For Fruit, Vegetable Industry

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal study group on agricultural policy has come up with only a few hard and fast recommendations for the fruit and vegetable industry, but offers a lot of helpful suggestions.

The 47-page report, the fifth of nine prepared as position papers for study by the Canadian agriculture congress in Ottawa March 24-27, treads gingerly through the field of horticulture.

It reaches the conclusion that the industry needs a thorough updating of its own statistics and a lot more research, co-ordination of marketing boards and better use of land in adapting to modern technology.

The complexity of the problem is stressed in the introduction, where the authors point out there are more than 20 fruits and vegetables grown in Canada each with a farm value of more than $1,000,000. Among many of them, there are very different conditions of production and distribution.

They are grouped into eight general categories: Potatoes, storable vegetables, fresh vegetables, processed vegetables, apples, tender fruit, berries and grapes.

But even in those general categories they didn't deal with mushrooms, greenhouse products and turnips, "because any attempt to deal with them would make an already diverse paper even more diverse."

The report favors lower tariffs in general and suggests Canada take the initiative in negotiating lower tariffs with the United States on potatoes and onions.

At the same time, it agrees that seasonal tariffs on some fruits and vegetables are necessary to protect Canadian farmers from countries with earlier harvest periods. And it favors continued use of value for duty to prevent distress selling in Canada.

Marketing boards are seen as one of the best ways to stabilize prices, but the report favors either joint action by marketing boards or the creation of national boards.

It criticizes boards for being too small to undertake the necessary market research and for being parochial in hiring personnel.

"The lack of exchange of personnel among the 120 marketing boards in Canada has prevented some boards from making the most of their opportunities."

One of the biggest problems facing the industry, the report's authors believe, is to expand acreage to take advantage of the economies of scale that are "substantial" for horticultural crops.

Citing the potato industry in the Maritimes, the report states that farms of 70 to 100 acres are required to make use of specialized equipment. Yet only two per cent of the farms in Prince Edward Island and five per cent of the farms in New Brunswick exceed 67.4 acres.

The report agrees that land-use planning is necessary to preserve agricultural land around large metropolitan areas, but suggests that the desire for self-sufficiency in food production is a poor argument.

CITES POTATO GROWING

The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency called the experiment the world's first large-scale international arms-control field exercise. It was named "Exercise First Look."

The idea was to see whether about 80 British-American inspection teams could make sure a hypothetical disarmament treaty limiting the level of conventional ground and air forces was being upheld. The exercise did not cover nuclear weapons.

Preliminary results showed a two-man inspection team for each 1,000 square miles of territory, if allowed access to military installations, could be reasonably certain that troop levels and troop movements were limited.

The preliminary report recommended a further test, this time with the land of more than one country being inspected by teams representing more than two countries.

Biggest Hide-And-Seek Game Now Completed By Britain

LONDON (AP) — The British government disclosed Tuesday the preliminary results of one of the biggest and costliest hide-and-seek games in history—a test on how to safeguard a future disarmament treaty against cheating.

It released a report asserting that under favorable conditions two inspectors for every 1,000 square miles could do the job.

The conclusions followed massive tests conducted last March to October over 2,000 square miles of southern England. Some 30,000 troops took part, including some deliberately trying to fool the inspectors.

Sponsors of the test, Britain and the United States spent about $3,500,000 on it, apparently in the hope that agreement on inspection systems could pave the way for agreement on a disarmament pact itself. Observers from most of the countries represented at the Geneva disarmament talks took a look at the test last year.

But the Soviet Union and its Communist allies in the Warsaw pact turned down invitations to send observers. The Russians have long opposed on-site inspections as a safeguard for a disarmament treaty. They claim this would be a cover for spying.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

Counting a hand may be a trifle laborious at times, but it is not really difficult if you put your mind to it.

South is in seven spades and his only possible loser is a heart. The grand slam would be easy enough to make if South knew which opponent had the queen, because all he would have to do would be to finesse in the right direction.

But since he doesn't see the queen, he must set out to assemble every bit of information he can to assist him in solving the crucial two-way guess.

After winning the diamond lead with the ace and drawing two rounds of trumps, declarer cashes the ace of clubs and ruffs a club. A diamond to the king is followed by another club ruff, and then, after trumping a diamond in dummy, the last club is ruffed.

The purpose of these plays is to compel the defenders to reveal their distribution. Thus, in the actual case, it becomes clear that West started with precisely one spade, six diamonds and four clubs. This knowledge is obtained as each defender follows or fails to follow suit.

South therefore learns that West was dealt two hearts, neither more nor less, and East consequently five hearts.

This leads to the logical conclusion that East, who started with five hearts, is more likely to have the queen than West, who started with two hearts.

As a matter of fact, the mathematical odds are 5 to 2 that East has the queen of hearts!

Accordingly, South leads the jack of hearts to the king and finesesses the ten on the way back. As it happens, the finesse works and the grand slam is made.

Of course, declarer cannot be sure he will succeed—heavy favorites sometimes lose—but, as usual, he is best advised to follow the odds.

Another Loss For Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Jackie McLeod tonight will announce the makeup of a Canadian national team that will attempt, despite recent exhibition failures, to topple the Russians in the world hockey tournament.

McLeod made the announcement Wednesday night after the Eastern Nationals lost 6-3 to Moscow Selects, rated second best in Russia, who now have four wins and two losses against various combinations of Canadian National team players.

Russia's top team recently took nine straight games from the Nationals.

McLeod said eight or nine players from the eastern team will be included in the lineup for the world tournament March 15 in Stockholm. And he expects to have Seth Martin in goal.

Martin plays for Trail Smoke Eaters of the Western International League and has said he will remain with the B.C. club until its playoffs are finished.

The balance of the team will be made up of players from the Western Nationals based in Winnipeg.

BUCKAROOS DROP TWO GAMES BEHIND

Buckaroos Drop Further Behind

Reg Cherenko, who scored a pair of goals Tuesday in Pen-tion's 5-0 victory over Kel-owna Buckaroos, literally de-stroyed those same Buckaroos Wednesday with three goals—including the winner in the first overtime period.

The 5-3 loss gives Penticton a 2-0 lead in games in the best-of-seven semi-final series. The third game goes Friday in Kamloops.

Cherenko sank the Buckaroos with his third goal but he beat a team that was threatening to do the job alone for most of the game. The Bucks, most penalized team in the league during the regular season, padded their play-off total lavishly, picking up cheap penalties throughout the game.

Of the 17 penalties handed out by referee Dale Cassell, 12 went to the Buckaroos. Penticton managed only a single power play goal but that one came when it counted most—less than three minutes after the start of the overtime period.

Besides Cherenko's three goals, others went to Ed Hays and Pat Laughtan. Kelowna scorers were Dave Cousins, Pat McMahon and Cliff McKay.

Kelowna never led in the game, tied 0-0 after the first period and trailing 2-1 after the second. At one point in the final period, the Bucks trailed 3-1 but they tied the score on goals by McMahon and McKay.

Penticton opened the scoring at 13:36 of the second period when goaltender Ron Pyle failed to control a rebound off the boards. Cherenko moved in quickly and shoved the puck into the open side of the net.

Kelowna bounced back a minute later when Cousins ended a 90-minute scoring drought for the Bucks by bending a goal over the crossbar. The goal was an odd one, the puck bouncing off the post, off McLellan and into the net.

Penticton regained the lead just before the end of the period when Hays, left unguarded in front of the Kelowna net, took a pass from defenceman Dwayne Pentland. Hays slid the puck into the open net without any trouble as Pyle made a futile effort to cover the open net.

With less than nine minutes remaining in the game, McMahon pulled the Bucks back into contention, shoving home a loose puck from a scramble in front of the Penticton net. McKay and Chuck Carigan drew assists on the play.

Cougars Win Second Game

In the second B.C. Junior Hockey League playoff game, Victoria Cougars surrendered a 3-0 lead before goalies Ron Graham, returning after an injury Tuesday, settled down and helped his teammates defeat Vernon Essos 5-3 before 800 spectators in Vernon.

The Victoria-Vernon series moves to Kelowna for the remainder of the games, with the third session tonight. Penticton and Kelowna meet again in Kamloops Friday night because Penticton ice is booked.

GRAHAM OUTSTANDING
Graham, hit in the neck by a puck in Tuesday's 6-3 win over Vernon, allowed Vernon three goals in a little more than five minutes of the first period but then recovered his outstanding form.

McKay gave the Bucks their last glimpse of hope when he tied the score 3-3 at 14:09 of the final period. He cut through the Penticton defence, pulled McLellan to the left side of the net and shoved a backhand shot through the goaltender's pads.

The overtime period was exactly two minutes old when Cousins was sent off for interference. Just 35 seconds later, Cherenko picked the upper left hand corner of the Kelowna net to give the Broncs a 4-3 lead.

Less than three minutes later, Laughtan bounced in a shot off Pyle's pads, increasing the count to 5-3.

In the final analysis, the Buckaroos were complimented to have taken the Broncs into overtime. For the second night in a row, penalties, mostly of the cheap variety, kept the Kelowna club on the defensive.

The Bucks were lavish in their hitting but completely unwilling to accept the same treatment from the opposition. They retaliated with high sticks and elbows whenever hit, giving the Broncs a man advantage for more than 16 minutes of the game.

In spite of their play, the Buckaroos could have—and almost did—come out of the game with a victory. They enjoyed a two-man advantage for the final minute of the game but couldn't mount an offensive before regular time ran out.

There were few bright spots. Pyle played well but he seemed to weaken as the Broncs kept up their relentless attack. The young goaltender ended up with 38 saves, eight more than McLellan in the Penticton nets.

Next home game for the Bucks is Saturday in the Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Royal Anne Smoke Shop.

SUMMARY
First period—No scoring. Penalties—Madden (Pen), Lenarduzzi (Kel) 1:01, Yarocki (Kel) 4:35, Lenarduzzi (Kel) 7:45, Jackson (Pen), McCarthy (Kel) 10:22, Jackson (Pen) 20:00.

Jones Registers Six Points In Portland Buckaroo Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Portland Buckaroos used a tried and tested Art Wednesday night to stretch their Western Hockey League lead to nine points over Vancouver Canucks.

Art Jones, the league's leading scorer this season and leader and MVP last year, had a six-point night as Bucks clobbered lowly Denver Spurs 8-2 before 3,835 spectators in Portland.

Meanwhile, Vancouver dropped a 5-4 decision to Seattle Totems before 4,076 in Seattle and San Diego Gulls mauled the willing Phoenix Roadrunners 9-1 before a crowd of 5,478 in San Diego.

Canucks stayed at the 73-point level while Bucks rose to 82. San Diego has 65 and Seattle 64 while Denver and Roadrunners share the cellar at 47. Denver is at Seattle Friday night.

TOTEMS RALLY
Jones scored two goals and recorded four assists as Portland moved up. Canucks meanwhile were killed by an unanswered three-goal burst from Seattle in the third period.

Art Stratton scored Seattle's first goal with only 16 seconds in the game and Jim Powers added another. Then veteran Guyle Fielder counted twice and Larry Lund once in the third. Len Lund and Brian Hextall gave Canucks a 2-2 tie in the first period and Hextall put Vancouver into the lead at 10:20 of the second. Duke Harris made it 4-2 at the 16:05 mark.

Jim Armstrong handled 29 shots in the Seattle nets while George Gardner looked after 28 for Canucks. Vancouver was assessed seven of 12 penalties.

Bucks now have a 34-14-14 record, with Canucks at 31-20-11. Vancouver looks for a boost with the return of goalie Charlie Hodge from Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League.

BEST OF SEASON
Jones' six points made up the best single-game performance of the season and propelled him into the lead in the league scoring race with 97 points. There ahead of teammate Bill Saunders.

Jones scored his first goal after 37 seconds of the first period to give Portland a lead it never lost. Cliff Schmutz scored twice and singles came from Larry Leach, Roger Belerive, Dick Van Impe and Norm Jonsson.

Gord Redahl scored for Denver in the second period and Gerry Foley in the third. Jim McLeod kicked out 25 shots for Portland and Rocky Farr made 28 stops for Denver.

Maple Leafs Even Series

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Nelson Maple Leafs evened their Western International Hockey League semi-final series at 1-1 Wednesday night with a 4-1 decision over Kimberley Dynamiters.

Kimberley won the first game of the best-of-seven series 6-2 Tuesday. Third game will be Friday in Kimberley. In the other series, Spokane Jets, leading 1-0, will meet Trail Smoke Eaters in Trail tonight.

Centre Leroy Mowery scored two goals for Nelson Tuesday, including the winner, with singles coming from defenceman Brian Lefey and Skip Holmes before about 1,000 spectators.

Kimberley's goal was scored in the third period by Dick Vincent on a power play. Kimberley had nine power play advantages, but could score only that one goal against Dave Halme.

Baseballs Fly Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Expos will face a left-handed pitcher and a lot of lefthanded hitting when Kansas City Royals open their baseball exhibition season in Fort Myers, Fla., today.

Mike Fiore, a left-handed batter, will open at first base and lefthanded Bill Butler will start on the mound.

Pat Kelly will play centrefield and lead off. Fiore will hit second, Joe Keough, right field, fourth and Ed Kirkpatrick (third base) fifth.

All hit from the left side. With Ted Williams managing and Frank Howard hitting, Washington Senators should pack the parks this season.

But Williams will have to carry the load alone today when the Senators open their exhibition baseball season.

Howard, the giant home run hitter, still is holding out for more money.

Nevertheless, Williams' managerial debut is expected to attract a full house of curious fans at Municipal Stadium in Pompano Beach, Fla., against New York Yankees.

Williams will be without his other power hitter, Ken McMullen. The hard-hitting third baseman ended his holdout Wednesday by signing an estimated $30,000 contract. However, he has missed the first 10 days of practice and will not play.

Howard, who led the American League with 44 home runs last season, was home in Green Bay, Wis., talking about quitting unless he gets a three-year, $100,000-a-year contract.

Williams and the Senators are not the only ones without top players as the exhibition games begin.

Northcott, Smale Poised To Grab Curling Honors

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Bob (PeeWee) Northcott and his Saskatchewan rink from Avonlea made their mistakes on the first day of the Canadian curling championship and now are waiting for the leaders to err.

"Tomorrow is a long day," Pickering said after defeating Northern Ontario 11-5 in the sixth round of the 11-rink, round-robin tournament Wednesday night.

He was referring to the fact that British Columbia, one of the co-leaders, plays in all three rounds today.

"Of course, Alberta gets the morning off, but they have to play British Columbia in the evening. Anything could happen."

The Alberta rink skipped by Ron Northcott of Calgary and Duke Smale's B.C. crew from Prince George were tied for first with 6-0 records after Wednesday's action.

The Saskatchewan rink, one of the pretournament favorites with Alberta and Prince Edward Island, trails at 4-1 after losing to B.C. in the second round Monday.

"That was our bad one," said Pickering. "I just didn't know where I was—couldn't read the ice and couldn't find the weight."

He said the ice has adjusted since and is "curling well, although it's not the best hitting ice in the world."

While Alberta slept in this morning, B.C. was playing P.E.I. Newfoundland took on Quebec, Ontario went against Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan took on New Brunswick and Northern Ontario played Manitoba.

Rinkskipped by Alan Smith of Charlottetown, and Earl Carson of Bagotville, Que., were tied for fourth going into today's three rounds with 3-2 records.

Bill Piercy of St. John's, Nfld., Terry Johnson of Kenora, representing Northern Ontario, and Hap Mabey of Moncton, N.B., followed at 2-4.

Peter Hope of Dartmouth, N.S., and Bob Robinson of Win.

niipeg were 1-4 and Ontario's Ken Buchan of London trailed without a victory in five games.

Saskatchewan started Wednesday's fifth round by downing Manitoba 10-7 in a game that was never in doubt after the third end.

Pickering, who says his rink is "curling really great" then trounced Northern Ontario 11-5 in a 2½-hour game—the fastest 12-end game of the tournament.

DOWN'S P.E.I. QUE.
Meanwhile, Alberta edged P.E.I. 8-7 with a final-shot draw to the four-foot circle, and well-known Quebec 14-6 in a game that saw the Northcott rink practising takeouts on its own stones.

B.C. defeated N.B. 7-6 in the afternoon round and Smale then led his B.C. team to a 9-8 triumph over Nova Scotia in the evening.

Saskatchewan started Wednesday's fifth round by downing Manitoba 10-7 in a game that was never in doubt after the third end.

Pickering, who says his rink is "curling really great" then trounced Northern Ontario 11-5 in a 2½-hour game—the fastest 12-end game of the tournament.

He was referring to the fact that British Columbia, one of the co-leaders, plays in all three rounds today.

"Of course, Alberta gets the morning off, but they have to play British Columbia in the evening. Anything could happen."

The Alberta rink skipped by Ron Northcott of Calgary and Duke Smale's B.C. crew from Prince George were tied for first with 6-0 records after Wednesday's action.

The Saskatchewan rink, one of the pretournament favorites with Alberta and Prince Edward Island, trails at 4-1 after losing to B.C. in the second round Monday.

"That was our bad one," said Pickering. "I just didn't know where I was—couldn't read the ice and couldn't find the weight."

He said the ice has adjusted since and is "curling well, although it's not the best hitting ice in the world."

While Alberta slept in this morning, B.C. was playing P.E.I. Newfoundland took on Quebec, Ontario went against Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan took on New Brunswick and Northern Ontario played Manitoba.

Rinkskipped by Alan Smith of Charlottetown, and Earl Carson of Bagotville, Que., were tied for fourth going into today's three rounds with 3-2 records.

Bill Piercy of St. John's, Nfld., Terry Johnson of Kenora, representing Northern Ontario, and Hap Mabey of Moncton, N.B., followed at 2-4.

Peter Hope of Dartmouth, N.S., and Bob Robinson of Win.

niipeg were 1-4 and Ontario's Ken Buchan of London trailed without a victory in five games.

Police Wage Secret War On Montreal Terrorists

MONTREAL (CP) — Police maintained almost total secrecy Wednesday in their efforts to uncover terrorist bombers.

There have been two announced breakthroughs since Friday:

—The discovery of a cache of explosives at St. Paul L'Ermite north of Montreal.

—The questioning of a 25-year-old man after an east-end Montreal flat was raided.

Police Director Jean-Paul Gilbert imposed a 48-hour news blackout after the man's arrest Tuesday, but Assistant Director Paul-Emile Olivier said the investigation "is going good."

The Gazette quotes a "well-informed police source" as saying the arrested man is "singing like a bird."

La Presse says three more persons were arrested Wednesday and Le Devoir says police have carried out more than 100 raids since Tuesday.

Police would not confirm nor deny the reports.

La Presse says the raids leading to the arrest of the three Wednesday were carried out from Montreal to St. Jerome, 35 miles north.

APPEARS AT INQUIRY
The man arrested in Montreal Tuesday was being interrogated at a closed-door inquiry being conducted by Fire Commissioner Cyrille Delage of Quebec City, who has special powers under a new Quebec Fire Investigations Act.

Sgt. Robert Cote, head of Montreal's bomb squad, has testified that the St. Dominique Street flat raided before the arrest contained three live bombs "all set to be placed."

Police also discovered 161 sticks of dynamite, 35 containers of an "extremely violent" primer used in major construction jobs and 100 detonators.

There have been 11 bombings this year in Montreal, including an explosion at the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges that injured 27 persons Feb. 13.

It was after that blast that rewards reached $50,000 for the arrest of persons responsible for bombings.

Police refuse any comment on whether a reward-seeking informant had been involved in Tuesday's arrest of the 25-year-old man.

There were 53 bombing incidents in 1968 through the Montreal area, many of them linked with labor unrest.

Three Women's Bodies Found Near Cape Cod Community

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (Reuters) — A divorced father of three was scheduled for arraignment here today on charges of murder in connection with the discovery of the dismembered bodies of three young women.

The nude bodies were uncovered Wednesday afternoon in shallow graves in a wooded area south of this Cape Cod community.

Police arrested Antonio Costa, 24, of Provincetown in a Boston Back Bay apartment shortly after the bodies were discovered. He was charged with murder in the deaths of two of the women, Patricia Walsh and Mary Ann Wysocki, both 23.

The third body, which was badly decomposed, was unidentified. State police said the body had been buried for more than a year.

The three bodies were found about 300 yards east of where the mutilated body of an unidentified teen-ager was discovered Feb. 8.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

CALLS IT A SETBACK

Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick said he thought the scrapping of the project was a "setback" for P.E.I. But he hoped the crossing would be reconsidered when the country's economy could afford it.

Estimates of the cost of the crossing, which would have been a nine-mile link between Borden, P.E.I., and Cape Tormentine, N.B., have ranged from $105,000,000 to $300,000,000.

Premier Campbell told the Commons transportation committee during its Atlantic hearings that the crossing could be built without rail facilities for $160,000,000.

George Key, leader of the P.E.I. PC party, said he was "shocked" at the news. Mr. Key said cancellation of the project by the government would make it harder for the province to negotiate with private concerns to build the crossing.

Errol Sharpe, provincial secretary for the New Democratic Party, said the federal government had "betrayed the trust of the island people and jeopardized the success of the long-awaited development plan."

MAYOR IS HAPPY
Mayor Gilbert Bell of Borden, P.E.I., wasn't disturbed by the cancellation.

Said Mayor Bell: "I'm not surprised to hear this announcement. I never thought it would be built. We welcome this news in Borden as it will enable us to carry on in a normal manner."

The mayor said he'd been "against the project right from the start, and I believe the prime minister has handed down a very honest decision. This has been a political football for a long time."

About 90 per cent of Borden's 781 people are employed on the CNR car ferry service between P.E.I. and the mainland.

P.E.I. CROSSING CANCELLED

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said the development plan doesn't appear to be up to the scale recommended by a study committee on P.E.I. needs.

Neither was there any indication of how much Islanders would have to contribute.

"What confidence can anyone have that this plan will, in fact, be carried through, since it is being announced at the very time the government is breaking a solemn undertaking with regard to the causeway?" Mr. Stanfield asked.

He questioned whether the development plan will mean much to the island economy without a permanent crossing.

"On the basis of the information that we have now, I think the people of Prince Edward Island are being short-changed."

MUST PAY INTEREST
NDP Leader T.C. Douglas said P.E.I. really will get only about $8,000,000 a year from the development plan because $41,600,000 of the federal money will have to be repaid with interest. This was "very poor crossing."

He also understood that P.E.I. would have to put up $519,000,000 during the 15-year period as its share, "a tremendous undertaking for a small province of 110,000 people."

He asked what provisions are being made "for the farmers who will be dispossessed, for the lobster canneries that will be closed, for the industry that will be rationalized, and for the number of ports that will be reduced."

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — "This is a black day for this province. It's one of the greatest betrayals of Prince Edward Island since we entered Confederation."

That was the reaction of 81-year-old former premier Walter R. Shaw Wednesday night to the announcement that the federal government has decided to shelve the P.E.I. causeway project.

Premier Alex Campbell made no immediate comment on the announcement beyond expressing his "disappointment" through an aide.

He is to hold a news conference here today following meetings Wednesday of both the P.E.I. cabinet and the legislature's Liberal caucus.

In the Commons, Regional Development Minister Jean Marchand said Premier Campbell had known about the federal government's decision for about 15 days.

PROMISED IN 1962
Mr. Shaw, now provincial house leader for the Progressive Conservatives, was premier when former prime minister Diefenbaker promised in 1962 that the crossing would be built.

Mr. Shaw said Wednesday that he "just couldn't believe" the federal government would cancel the project. "I'm terribly discouraged and fearful for the future of our province."

He also said he couldn't see how the high hopes now being held for the new P.E.I. development plan could be fulfilled without the crossing.

The 15-year, $225,000,000 plan is to be signed here Friday by Premier Campbell and Mr. Marchand.

Emanuel Adelaar, president of the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade, said the development program "is not going to have its required impact" without the crossing. He said the crossing would have benefited the other Maritime provinces, particularly New Brunswick. "I'm afraid the federal government completely misunderstood the importance of this link."
